

Well, it has been a whirlwind week of media and TV coverage as the world awakens to our recovery of Halifax bomber HR871. We are now over the 500 mark of people following our exciting salvage of this RCAF Halifax. The funds are coming in very steadily and with much enthusiasm and we are almost up to $17,000!

We are staying ahead of our costs for the recovery! I should mention that while we have this great Fundrazr site for your donations we also have the original Halifax 57 Rescue. for donations. This website has much information and past reports of all we have done to uphold the history and heritage of the stalwart old Halifax aircraft that our warriors flew to Victory in WWII. We can accept donations here and at our website so have a look to study up on what we have done, and will do, as we save Halifaxes from around the world. I should point out that due to a frustrating technical glitch this author has been unable to load Progress Report 60 and 61 on our official website at www.57rescuecanada.com

To alleviate and expedite our communications and progress with all of you, I will maintain this line of reporting via these UPDATES at Fundrazr until our website problem can be fixed. Then I will have reports and updates for all of you at both locations!

To all of you who have donated and are going to receive those great perks as listed on this site I have all your emails and have a stack of packages ready to be fired off to your received mailing addresses. I am almost out of the great H57RC baseball hats so have ordered a 3rd order of these hats!!, to keep up with the donations and demand.

To review this week on all that is "cookin" in our Halifax kitchen, with more than 1 burner getting hot as we gather all the ingredients of a great recipe for saving our Bomber Command history, here are 3 of the great articles, videos, and reports that have come out this week.
